Paper No:03252004
Serial Number: 10/645630
Filing Date: August 22,2003

1. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed. It should be brief but technically accurate and descriptive, preferably from two to seven words. See 37 CFR 1.72(a).
2. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.
3. Claims 1-8,12-15 are is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The claims are a single step and are thus considered as undue breadth.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Kuzunuki et al teaches in figures 1-9, an elevator group control system.

Within the computing means, energy consumption and load (number of passengers) are used to determine the car allocation. A plurality of tables can be used rather than a mathematical formula see, col. 7, lines 50-67.

3) Col. 4, lines 15-44 state time varying the coefficients.

Art Unit: 2837

4,5,6) Tables stated col. 7.

12) Stepwise files stated col 7- col 8 crossover.

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

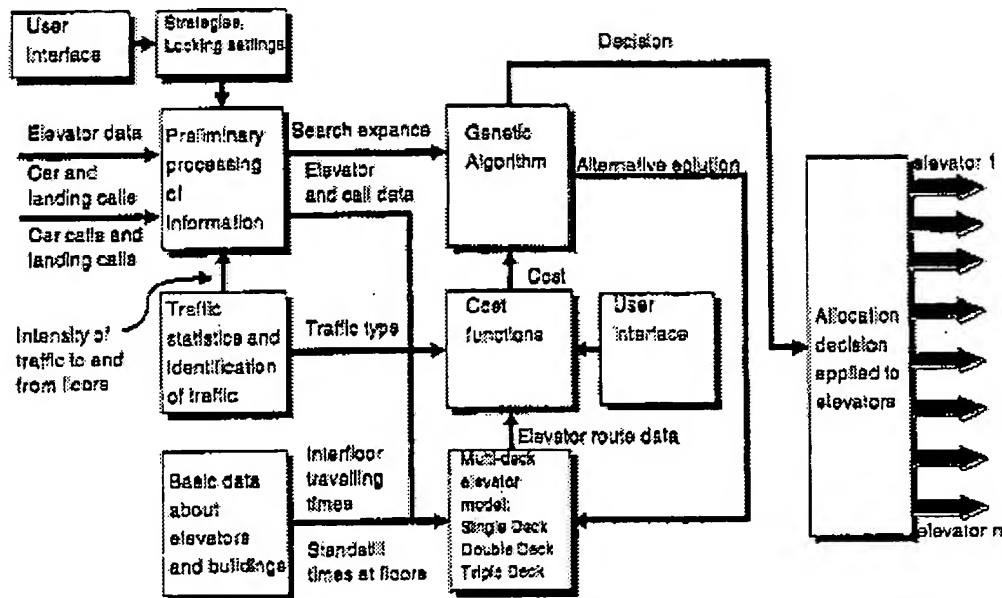

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 7-11,13-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kuzunuki et al and Ylinen et al (6293368).

Kuzunuki et al does not illustrate the specifics of the consumption file but states that the substitution between mathematical formula and file is equivalent.

Ylinen et al teaches that for increased accuracy of a call allocation system for an elevator, it is advantageous to optimize based on a number of criteria such as waiting time, call time, starts and including energy consumption. Any number of desired combination (claim 15) is also possible.

Art Unit: 2837

Moreover, the use of traffic statistics, basic elevator data, type of elevator such as double deck (claim 14) allows better control of the cost functions and genetic algorithm.

Each allocation provides data for the database which is used in subsequent allocations. The data includes energy consumption as stated above. Such control provides increased efficiency and optimization of desired criteria.

Thus, to utilize an updating database for improved efficiency would have been an obvious engineering design choice to one of ordinary skill in the art.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Koh et al., Kim, Umeda et al., Chenais and Tsuji are cited to illustrate similar elevator allocation controllers.

A shortened statutory period for response to this action is set to expire 3 months from the date of this letter.

Art Unit: 2837

Failure to respond within the period for response will cause the application to become abandoned. 35 U.S.C. 133
